

TAGLINES – THE CERULEAN DUKE

I do not pretend to be proficient in the modus operandi of the hanky-panky man.

*Be a good fellow and light
this cigar for me.*

A true scientist would not hesitate to use his sense of taste.

Have you misplaced your etiquette guide?

My concern for nature only goes so far.

Perhaps I'm coming on a bit stronger than would be tactful.

Condense your dissertation.

Call it what you like!

If only I could recall a pivotal fact.

I can only say that we are making progress in our investigation.

The dispute is unworthy.

Who would question your authority?

Let us review from the beginning, without bafflement.

A fine locale for a stabbing.

There are too many smells here.

*As Baron Bodissey once said,
"Let someone else look in the box."*

*Your verbiage here, I find
to be absolute jargon.*

I dispute your credentials.

I suppose it is pointless to complain of this outrage.

This would look lovely, from a distance.

Circumstances force this necessity upon us.

*Give me pseudo-lepidoptery
or give me death.*

That would be a wonderful surprise.

*I submit to the sublimity
of your weaponry.*

We have already discounted their emotions.

Others might call this squalid.

Is this your creature, and does it bite?

It is not torture; it is science.

The distinction is void.

My acts are motivated by idealism.

I can only advise vigilance.

Would you care for some candy?

Somehow this all seems a bit loose and untidy.

I must think. Fetch me snails and wine!

Your humor eludes me.

Let us have no more delay.

*Do not kill the bull
before the cow is fresh!*

That is the effect we are trying to achieve.

You must alter the public image you project.

*We must learn to deal
impersonally with the topic.*

The passive tense was spoken in.

This tastes of arthropod.

I will heed your advice.

I consider that interesting news.

Further interruption will be harshly dealt with.

Let us be guided by whim.

*It's rather a disorganized
way of handling an operation.*

What I have to say is important.

I think I must take my departure.

I'm tired of being mystified.